Entrepreneurship for Women in EU

WE-GET:

Women Entrepreneurship
Generating Enhanced Training

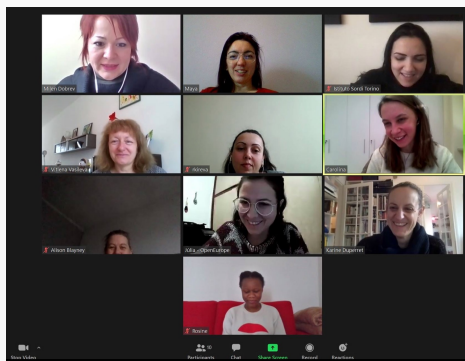

- Mapping Training Needs for Female Entrepreneurs

THE PROJECT

Opening new perspectives and enhancing training and professional paths of women are the two main working lines of the We Get! project. Partners from 6 European countries have joined forces to empower women by raising their soft skills attainment, their creativity, persuasion and innovation and by improving their digital and ICT skills. If you are an educator working in this sector, We Get! will show you how to deal with the skills mismatch of would-be and young women entrepreneur through new and innovative educational materials! Learn about digitalisation, internationalization or change management to reinforce your competences and skills and enhance your knowledge on guidance and mentoring of women entrepreneur.

Virtual Launch for Project for Female Entrepreneurs

• Digital Kick Off Meeting – We-Get Project

As the COVID-19 pandemic continues to impact everyone across the European Union and beyond, the planned transnational project meeting in The Hague to launch this innovative project was flipped to a digital format.

The partnership is formed from dynamic organisations based across Europe, all of which have aims and objectives to support the development and progression of female entrepreneurship in their local economy.

Hosted by the lead partner Vi One in the Netherlands, this virtual 'kick off' meeting enabled the partnership to renew existing relationships and welcome new working partnerships from organisations for who this project was their first experience of working together.

Women Entrepreneurs During COVID

The We-Get project will showcase women entrepreneurs who are trailblazers across Europe, and in particular those who are prominent as we build back following the pandemic.

Project partners will highlight relevant data from the EU in relation to the impact of COVID on women, business and employment and disseminate via the website, social media platforms and networks.

Promoting Via Social Media Platforms

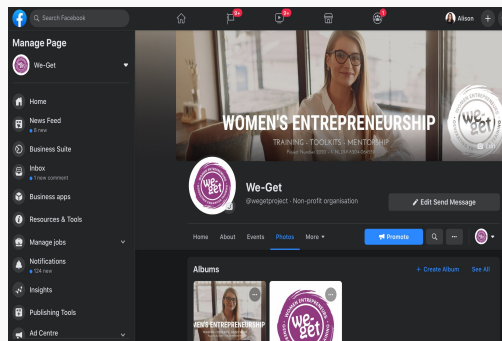

- Project Launch on Facebook

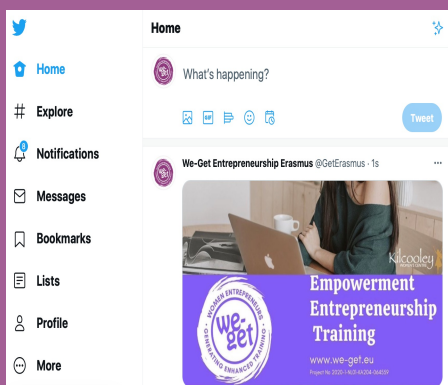

Social media is an important method of engaging participants and disseminating results of the project.

The project partners will use various social media platforms to maximise the engagement from female entrepreneurs on the project and to ensure local, regional, national and international organisations are aware of the activity we have planned.

The team have developed a dedicated Facebook page to promote discussion with key stakeholders and to circulate articles linked to women in business.

Linking to Business with Twitter

- Project Twitter Page

Project partner based in Northern Ireland – Kilcooley Women's Centre are leading on the dissemination of the project and its results.

The partners have recognised the important role Twitter plays in the business and training community. A project page has been created to engage with key stakeholders and to widen participation on project activity, events and the training toolkit.
